Hello Shona,

I've spoken to our guys and they have told me that this is one of the most used bins in the park so it will need to be replaced.

Regards

Peter

Thank you Simon.

Will get back to you asap about the bin but could you provide some extra advice please. Is it an important bin? Well used? Necessary?

Thank you again

Shona

Have spoken to CCTV and they confirm camera would not have captured anything in the location of the bin.

Hi Shona

From the picture it doesn't appear to be an immediate hazard and I would suggest we now attend next week to replace like for like (Glasdon Jubilee). We can allocate this to your R&M budget (approx £450)

Naturally there are a whole range of bins (and costs) but none that I'm aware will resist without damage this sort of fire – fortunately the occurrence is fairly limited and overall these still offer the best overall value.

CCTV at the top of the park is unlikely to have captured any detail from this distance and certain not if under the cover of darkness – I'll speak to them but don't have much expectation. Much sooner that we would like but does demonstrate the overall effectiveness/limitation of CCTV as we discussed this week.

Regards

Simon

Shame on them! Thanks for letting me know Richard.

Can you advise please. Presume it is not doing any immediate damage? Is its presence likely to encourage copycat activities? Does it still function as a bin? Is it a worthwhile bin to replace and what would it cost to do so with something more fireproof (if such a thing exists)? Are there any CCTV images that would help establish who did it? Clearly CCTV is not acting as a deterrent.

If you could thank Shelley and let her know that you have advised us and that we are working together to consider the best course of action from here, that would be much appreciated.

Look forward to hearing from you.

Kind regards

Shona
